LITTLE MONITOR,

An entirely new and important invention for burning

COAL AND CARBON OIL

As a Gas and without a Chimney.

consists in attaching to any common fuel lamp a cylinder, about 14 inches in length by a inch in diameter, made of perforated tin, coned by a very simple contrivance, so that it turns round on its axis, and is so constructed that a pint of gas is emitted from the top of the perforated tin about two inches long, which will bear as much agitation as the direct gas, and for more than half an hour will continue to burn the flame of a gas light is of the same brilliancy as that of a HAND LAMP. The gas is not mixed with air, and the flame of the gas, and emits no more odor or smoke than when used in a common lamp.

It is well known that heretofore, to produce without a chimney a gas light, the gas was mixed with air, and the flame of the gas was not so brilliant as that of a hand lamp.

out any unpleasant odor, has satisfied the five-thirtieths of the age. This burner can at once be rearranged for a night lamp or sick chamber so as to burn hours and not consume

Half a Tablespoonful of Oil.
Now, then, are its characteristics:
It gives light and throws the light of any other round-wick lamp.
It will bear carrying round the house, up stairs down, in the most rapid manner.
There are no chimneys broken, as none are used.
It is all right, and no family will long be without
